THE DEADLOCK.

Roll Call After Roll Call, in Which the Contending Parties Hold Well Together.

CONFIDENCE OF THE CONTES-TANTS UNABATED.

Complimentary Votes Thrown Around by Various Delegates Without Final Result.

THE CLOSE OF A TOUGH DAY'S WORK,

Adjourns the Convention and Assembles the Caucuses Behind Closed Doors.

Yesterday served to clear away the en tanglement of the advance skirmishing, and developed the real strength of the four avowed candidates as between themselves. On one ballot Boynton reached 1541/4 votes or within 11/2 votes of our last Sunday's estimate of his vote, which was 156, and 2 of his votes were thrown off. On that same ballot Major Bacon had 1391/2 votes, or within 11/2 votes of our last Sunday's estimate of his vote, which was 141. No estimate was ever more accurately sustained, while the estimate of the opposition that gave Boynton a vote of 100 as his original and added only 22 votes as second choice for Boynton, is more than absurd when the record shows that he has received 1541/2 votes with four other candidates voted for. Between these extremes of 1541/2 and 139, there are about 15 votes that seem to go in. differently from one vote to the other-while each candidate has from 4 to 6 votes that are sent out here and there on complimentary excursions-and used to work up "spurts" with. On one ballot yesterday Boynton had 153 and Bacon 149, or about that. On the next ballot these figures were reversed, and the chairman of a delegation of four votes, said: "That's right, we'll just keep them balancing with each other."

It is easy to see that the Boynton men had the best of yesterday's work. They were somewhat demoralized the night before, while the Bacon men were jubilant, and boasted that they would rush their candidate through easily in the morning session. It was said they claimed to have gained 6 Boynton votes, and would open with 160. On the contrary, they opened with about 7 votes less than they closed with the day before. At the noon recess they said openly that they would rush their man through in the afternoon-but he never came within 3 votes of his highest vote of the morning and the Boynton men on the other next ballot. When it was called Boynton gained morning, and the Boynton men on the other hand touched their highes vote.

Besides recovering their nerve and courage the Boynton men on the second day showed ing: Boynton, 144 2-5; Bacon, 142 3-10; McDaniel, much better discipline. They were the most 34 3-10; Cook, 15; Simmons, 4; Martin J. Crawford, 4; Logan E. Bleckley, 2. organization, while the Bacon ranks were fill- The four votes for Crawford were given by Harris ed with ex-members of the house and skilled parliamentarians. They also had the advantage of having fought a campaign under the same leader only six months ago, and having gone through convention under him last fall. They were veterans against militia in a certain sense. On yesterday the Boynton men were in much better fighting trim, and received the assaults of their opponents with admirable tact and temper. ject was three or four times brought before the convention. It was proposed to have a conference committee that would suggest a new course—an-other plan was to withdraw both of the leading candidates-another was to let each congressional district select one member of a committee of nine that should name a candidate. None of these prop ositions was accepted-and none considerably dis-

Last night the conference rumors flew thick and fast, and all sorts of things were talked about, but it was hard to run them down to anything tangible. One theory is that it will be impossible to transfer the heavy vote of either Boynton or Bacon to any other man without the opposing candidate catching enough to nominate him, while others hold that neither of the leaders can ever be nominated. It is probable that some sort of conference resolu-

At each of the caucuses last night the enthusiasm was even higher than at the previous meetings, and without any break that was reported to the outside world the delegates decided to stand by their candidates as long as was desired.

Yesterday Morning's Session.

Yeslerday morning the hall of the house of representatives was packed with delegates, citizens generally, politicians, pages, newspaper men and various other individuals long before the hour of half-past nine arrived. In the gallery a few bright colored dresses showed where fair ones had gathered to witness the po-litical struggle. This convention has been characteristic for the small number of ladies who witness its proceedings. It does not seem to attract the fair'sex.

At haif-past nine Judge Crisp ascended the stand and called the convention to order, whereupon Mr. and called the convention to order, whereupon Mr. Turner, of Troup, offered the following resolution:
Resolved, That the interests of the democratic party would be materally subserved, if, in the future the several counties of the state would select a number of delegates to represent them in the conventions of the party, not greater than the amount of votes they are entitled to therein, and that the state executive committee be requested to so limit the number of delegates.

Mr. Harris, of Worth.—Mr. Presdent: I move to lay that resolution on the table; nomina ions are now in order. I am a democrat, and when the boys want to have a convention and their counties appoint them, and they come here at their own expense, we say let them come. [A pulsays] ense, we say let them come. [Applause. The resolution of Mr. Tuner was laid on the

The chair appointed the following as a commitee to solicit contributions from the members to defray the expenses incident to the holding of the convention: Messrs. Sweat, of Clinch; Tatum, of Dade and Shannon, of Franklin. As soon as the convention was fairly settled down the call of the counties was begun for the sixth ballot. Important developments were expected bu the results were not far from those of the previou day. The sixth ballot was as follows:

the results were npt far from those of the previous day. The sixth ballot was as follows:

J. S. Philip Cook—Calhoun 1, Lee 2, Irwin 1, Sumter 4, Webster 2, Warren 2, Schley 2, Terrell 1, Taylor 4, Worth 2—Total 19½.
T. J. Simmons—Houston 4.

The announcement enspirited no little. They had pulled their man up to an even one from Meriwether and one from Paulding, carrying both counties solid. This carried him ahead and the end of the ballot left the candidates standcounty and were received with applause as Judge Crawford had been freely discussed on the floor and in the galleries as a very probable dark horse. Rabun county showed her preference for Judge Bleckley on this ballot and complimented him with

The eighth ballot was ordered. Rabun gave up Judge Bleckley, but instead of going back to Bacon voted for Boynton. Meriwether remained solid for him. Harris went back to Bacon and was welecmed with cheers. The ballot stood: Boynton Simmons, 5: McCutchen 4. Dade and Walker had saying that the McDaniel and the Cook forces | left Bacon and Boynton to go over and pay their respects to Judge C. D. McCutchen, who is one of the most popular men in north Georgia. On the next ballot they wheeled back into their old lines. The only incident that enlivened this portion of some resolutions by which the party be may united upon one candidate. I think that during that time perhaps names at present before the convention may be withdrawn. Something of the kind must be done to get out of this position. Somebody must be left off.

Mr. Kibbee, of Pulaski, moved to lay the mo tion on the table. The motion to lay on the table was adopted.

When the name of Morgan was reached, Hon. Da-vid E. Butler, of that county, arose and said: Mr. President—Morgan county, arose and said:
Mr. President—Morgan county, sir, while having a choice in this great struggle, has complimented nearly all the candidates; and now, sir, to contribute as much as possible to the continuation of peace, harmony, and the great good will which is existing between all these gentlemen and representatives of the great state of Georgia, on this occasion Morgan votes solidly—half a vote for Boynton and the balance for McDaniel. [Laughter.]

When Worth county was reached Hon. W. A. Harris arose and said:

Mr. President: Following the spirit of my dis-tinguished friend from Morgan, I shall now vote one vote for Boynton and one for Bacon. [Applause and laughter.]

The ninth ballot showed no material change and was as follows: Boynton, 147½; Bacon, 141 4-5; Mc-Daniel, 34 7-10; Cook, 17; Simmons, 5. On the tenth ballot the vote was: Boynton, 146%; Bacon, 147 3-10; McDaniel, 36%; Cook, 15; Sim-

Mr. Burnett cast his vote steadily for Boynton.

Dr. Smith stuck for three or four ballots to Simmons and then went to Bacon.

While the vote on the tenth ballot was proceeding

Mr. Butler arose and said, when Morgan was

"If I knew the name of a single hardshell demo-crat among these distinguished gentlemen, or any where else in the state of Georgia, that by receiving my vote now would harmonize this convention and bring us to a unanimo A scene of great confusion arose and the hall was filled with repeated cries of "Boynton!" "Bacon!" "Boynton!"

"Bacon!" Mr. Butler smiled in a tantalizing sort of way and resumed: "Mr. President, this diversity of sentiment se fles me that this convention is not yet ready for a step of that kind and for that reason, sir, I cast the two votes of Morgan county for the Hon. Henry D. McDaniel." A semi-howl of disappointment and laughter

On the eleventh ballot the Bacon men did their very best and lifted their candidate to the highest notch toward the coveted 176 votes he has yet known. On this ballot nearly all of Cook's strength was thrown to Bacon. His votes from Calhoun, Lee, Sculey, Macon, Taylor and Webster all went to Bacon. The Sumter votes were thrown to Me Daniel. The Boynton men stood the dash wonderfully well, and responded to it with a rally of their wn which gave Boynton the biggest vote he had received up to that time. When this short, sharp fight was over the result was: Boynton, 151; Bacon, 156 4-5; McDaniel, 42 1-5. The announcement was cheered by both sides. The Bacon men had come within 19 votes of a victory and were jubilant. The Boynton men felt that their opponents had put forth their whole force, and had failed in making an expected sweep. So both were satisfied, both unshaken.

While the roll was being called upon the eleventh ballot, efforts were made to obtain a recess. The hair ruled that a motion to adjourn pending the calling of the roll was not in order.

When the ballot was concluded Mr. Butler, of Morgan, arose and said:

Mr. President: It does seem to me that there some names and perhaps one name most those of all the great statesmen in Georgia that will bring harmony to this convention and stop this dead lock. [Cries of "Order! order!" from all parts of the house.] Mr. Young, of Bartow-I rise to a point of order There is nothing in order now but to call the roll

Mr. Butler-If you do I will appeal from it A voice: Let him appeal and then we'll settle it. Mr. Young: I withdraw the point of order. Mr. Butler: Thank you, sir. Free speech in Geor-ia is yet maintained. [Applause and laughter.]

I have shown a liberality myself in this convention in the few little votes we have had that transcends all that you big men have shown. A voice—That sort of liberality takes somebody ilse's time. Mr. Butler—I want to cast the votes of Morgan for agentleman whose character and escutcheon stands untarnished, a man who is not here clamoring for your votes. That man is the Hon. Martin J. Crawford. [Applause.] Morgan casts one vote for Crawford and one for ac Daniel.

The twelfth ballot put General Cook back in the lists and remanded to him nearly all his old counties. There was no significant change otherwise. The result was: Boynton, 1472-5; Bacon, 1533-10; McDaniel, 33 3-10; Cook, 15; Crawford, 1. The vote for Crawford was cast by David E. Butler, of Madison, who seemed bent on a general tour of compli-mentary attention to all the candidates and all the dark horses. After this ballot both sides seemed willing to rest until after dinner. A recess was taken at a quarter to one until 3 o'clock.

Afternoon Session. When the hands of the clock pointed to the hour of three Judge Crisp, the ever urbane chairman, called the convention to order and announced tha the counties would be called for the thirteenth ballot. Hon. Dupont Guerry, of Sumter, elbowed his way through the dense crowd and took a stand directly in front of the speaker's desk. Facing the audience Mr. Guerry, in a deliberate and impressive

Mr. Butler, of Morgan, seconded the nomination in a short speech as follows:

parties appealed to the chair to decide whether the delegate could proceed. Before any decision was made General Young withdrew his objection, and

Mr. Butler had "his say." The fiftieth ballot resulted as follows: Boynton 147: Bacon, 138: McDaniel, 35: Cook, 30.

On the sixteenth ballot the Boynton delegates developed remarkable strength. The vote of Hall Boynton amid deafening cheers. McIntosh, isually for Bacon, was likewise saluted as it came into the Boynton column. Pierce, another Bacon county, also went into the Boynton line. The enthusiasm these and other changes for Boynton ereated was considerably balanced for the Baconites when Wilkes, which had usually cast 3 for McDaniel and 1 for Bacon, gave Bacon a solid shot of 4 strength and gained the recruits mentioned. He went to his highest point and amid cheers from his enthusiastic delegations the following was announced as the sixteenth ballot: Boynton, 1541/2; Bacon, 1421/2; McDaniel, 311/2; Cook, 211/2. After this ballot there was a considerable pause, and when the result had been announced Judge Gibson, of Warren, arose and said:

Gibson, of Warren, arose and said:

Mr. President: It does seem to me that we have made a continuous and lengthy effort for the purpose of making a nomination for governor. I am not aware that the result has sufficiently changed since the time we commenced yesterday until now to authorize the belief that there will be a nomination by continuing this baliot; and I again urge upon the convention the proposi ion that a conference committee be appointed, to be composed of the representatives of the candidates, and that while the committee is in session a recess of this convention be taken. I make this proposition with the view that the members of the committee shall be appointed from the delegations of each candidate, and that in this way we may be enabled to that a speedy end to the contest:

In this way some plan may be devised to get out of our present trouble.

Judge Hood, of Randolph—I desire to offer a substitute for that proposition of the gentleman from Warren, and that is that a committee of one from each congressional district be appointed by the chair as a conference committee I have sat here and voted for more than twenty-four hours. I am tired and worn out with it. I have discharged the duty that I undertook for my people. I have voted long enough. It is necessary for harmony and success of the democratic party that somebod should be nominated by this convention, and the nominated by this convention, and the nominated by this convention, and the world by which that end could be obtained, it is the duty of this convention to reach it in some way or other. I feel that I have discharged my duty to my friends. I hope that every other genuleman feels the same way. If I know myself I have no interest in this contest except the success of the democratic party of Georgia. [Applause.] If there is any man here who represents a county in this state who has any other feeling, who has any other interests to subserve, he had best go home. [Applause.] It is not partfoit; it is not democratic. Let us see now if we cannot reconcile the difference in this convention. How can it be done! By these continuous ballots day after day until the day of the election? I am apprehensive that there are gentlemen who would sit here and ballot from now until the day of the election, unless they could secure the nomination of their favorite. I desire to say for myself that I do not sympathize with such a course. I want them to make a nomination. I want one acceptable to the people of Georgia. How can we reach the end? I propose this as a means to see if we can reach it. I say appoint them from the state at large and from each congressional district. Let them meet to night and consult. Let them be honest men—patriots who have the good of the state and the democratic party at heart; and it is my opinion that they can reac opinion that they can teach a consider morrow morning.

Mr. Kibbee. of Pulaski, arose and said:

This proposition, Mr. President, does not commend itself to my judgment. While I have confidence in the chair, I say that no committee of conference could be selected which would be acceptable without a caucus meeting. They would not be acceptable without a caucus meeting. They would not be acceptable without a caucus meeting. They would not be acceptable without a caucus meeting. They would not be acceptable without a caucus meeting. They would not be acceptable without a caucus meeting. They would not be acceptable without a caucus meeting. They would not be acceptable without a caucus meeting. They would not be their respective cancuses. These gentlemen otherwise may not represent the feelings of thefriends whose interests they are selected to look after. Therefore I say it is impracticable, and I move to lay the motion upon the table.

Mr. Livingstone, of Newton-May I ask the gentlemen who made this motion to withdraw it. This is the first step looking to harmony in this convention. I wish to suggest an amendment to the whole, and bring it in order.

Judge Hood—I withdraw my motion.

Mr. Livingstone—I wish to amend by not only putting on that committee one from each congressional district, but one particular friend representing each candidate. Let the chair appoint nine men, and then appoint one man at the instance of each man bailoted for. Let them retire them and come to some decision upon the matter. That would be a fair proposition to all parties, unless it be for one objection. Our Bacon, when McDaniel has thirty and Bacon one hundred and thirty-dwe?" And they may say: "How can it be fair to Boonton, when he has a hundred and fifty otes and Cook thirty?" I can stop and give you a dozen precedents for actions of this kind in the state of Georgia, when these differences have been submitted to honest, patriotic, demoratic committees and they have settled them to the satisfaction of all. It was done when Govern

On the seventeenth ballot Bacon's friends rallied well. Hall left Boynton for McDaniel, after remaining with him for only one ballot. McIntosh returned to Bacon. Walker, which had started with 2 for Boynton and then divided her vote, now gave both to Bacon. Lee again left Cook for him. Wilkes returned to its old formula of 3 for McDaniel and 1 for Bacon. After the call was finished but not announced Pierce, which had left Bacon for Boynton some time ago an-nounced a change of 2 votes from Boynton to Bacon. Of course the news was lustily cheered but it had no visible effect on the Boynton men and was not followed by any other change.

The ballot was announced as follows: Boynton 148, Bacon 155%, McDaniel 31%, Cook 15. It was getting late and all sides were evidently weary after a day of hard work and exhausting anxiety. After several motions to adjourn to various hours it was by general consent agreed that the convention should rest from its labors until half past nine o'clock this morning.

The Caucuses

The Bacon men had a caucus at Concordia hall last night. There was a smaller attendance than no special line of policy for to-day's action. Several addresses were made, urging delegates to stick. The first ballot to-day is expected by them to show as many votes for Bacon as he had on the last ballot yesterday.

room of the Kimball house. An excellent speech was made to them by their candidate. His remarks seemed to arouse fresh enthusiasm. He will probably be voted for to-day on the first ballot by about the same strength as left him yesterday. The Bacon men claim assurances of gains on the second ballot to-day.

The Boynton caucus last night was very large and enthusiastic. Several speeches were made, and the delegates expressed their determination to stick 40 their favorite. It is probable that the vote for Boynton this morning will be increased, and it is exceedingly probable that the convention will conclude its labors to-day.

There have been a great many bets on the result since the convention met. Last night over $600 was deposited in one safe and over $1,000 in wagers was already in the same safe. The betting shows Boynton the favorite, with even wagers of the field against both Boynton and Power and the field against both Boynton and Power affects.

They were not very careful in their operations, and he did not seem surprised to hear that they were accused of using the money. An active speculator in the street, who knew of their operations, said they dealt in 3,000 and 4,000 shares a day, and were accused full first their operations. the field against both Boynton and Bacon.

The Republicans.

The republican special committee of ten did no hold a meeting yesterday, but will meet to-day if the democrats make a nomination. It is the intention to wait and see what the democrats will do and then to take whatever action may be considered best. It is hinted that ex-Governor Bullock will be urged to run. Yesterday a prominent republican aid to a Constitution man that the policy of the republicans would be settled in six hours after the

A WOMAN'S LIFE.

FROM BRILLIANT NUPTIALS TO BEGGAR'S SHROUD. Ire. Relyea's Romance-Twice Married to Men of Great Wealth, Taken in by Designing Schemers, and Finally Dies in Poverty-Two Brothers Schoond With the Funds.

NEW YORK, April 11 .- Mrs. Mary L. Relyea, a public school teacher, with an unusual personal history, died in the residence of her brother-in-law, Mr. Coggeshall, at No. 37 Sidney Place, leaving an eight-year-old daughter. Mrs. Relyea was the sister of General Hugh McNeil, who won fame during the war. She was in her maidenhood, the belle of Brooklyn, her beauty resembling that type of which Mrs. Scott Siddons is an example. She was married to Mr. Rockefeller, brother of J. S. Rockefeller, of the Standard Oil company, and went with him to live in Montana, where he held a state office, and lived in luxury. They had a costly home and abundant means, and life was happy with them until his health broke down. He felt if he could breathe the air of his native place, Round Brook, N. J., he would be better, and he and his wife started across the plains. He died in a stage. She carried his body several days with her in the stage, but finally, at the request of the passengers, left it to be shipped east. Her husband possessed a large estate, but his western agent is said to have despoiled the widow of all of it. She became a pupil of Peter Cooper's of all of it. She became a pupil of Peter Cooper's school of telegraphy when she was a girl. She had a most ardent lover in Mr. Relyea, whose life was almost blighted by disappointment by her first marriage, and he broke into a prosperous career in New York to go into stock raising in Montana. When he heard she was a widow he stared east, renewed his suit with poor success at first, but his persistence ended in her marriage. She experienced then a transition from poverty and went again to Montana. She came east for her health, and after the birth of her child her husband sold his ranch and pocketed the proceeds, amountind to over $20,000 in cash, and started east. He has never been heard from since. She believed he was murdered and robbed on the wav east. William Orton, president of the Western Umion Telegraph company, became much interested in her, and as she could telegraph he placed all of the Western Union lines at her disposal, and she searched by wire everywhere for some trace of her husband, but in vain. She was then given a position as a telegraph operator, and until Mr. Orton's death he provided pleasant positions for her, but her health suscumbed to the work when her protector died. At length she secured a position as teacher in the public school, No. 32, at President and Hoyt streets, where she taught until a few days ago. She died of pneumonia.

Something of a sensation was created in Wall street Monday by the statement that there had been a large misuse of trust funds. Finally the reports connected the names of Henry H. Tobias and Washington Tobias with the misappropriation. They are the soes of Mrs. Hermione Tobias, the widow of the late Alfred Tobias, who resides at No. 12 East Forty-eighth street, with whom they lived. An uncle of the men, who are about thirty-two and thirty-five years gio. The amount left in their control was said to be much over. $1,000,000 belonging to the estate, and left the city. were accused of using the money. An active speculator in the street, who knew of their operations, said they dealt in 3,000 and 4,000 shares a day, and were oftener wrong than right on the market; they traded in no particular stock, but took pretty near the whole list. From another house, where they used to have an account, a different story was obtained. They closed their account with him in November. They did not keep up margins. Their losses did not exceed $20,000 or $30,000, and it would not effect the estate at all. He said Mrs. Tobias brought her husband most of his money, and he estimated the estate at $300,000; he felt sure the men were in the city. He saw one of them yesterday, and ascertasned from a note he sent to the house that the other one had not gone away.

The men were habitues at the Windsor and Delmonico's, and sent orders from both places. It was said that they had not been there in two or three weeks. They were usually there in the evening. They were together most of the time. Once they were in the broker business, and Henry was a member of the stock exchange. The business was not continued long, and his seat was sold for $6,000. There was a great deal of talk at the Windsor, but it was mostly wide speculation. The figures were put as high as $250,000. One statement was that they in their reported flight, had taken with them a large amount. The belief was they had gone to Europe. Nearly every broker and speculator seemed to know them. They are members of one of the most respected Hebrew families. The matter would have been kept a family affair but for the dissatisfaction of the other brothers, who permitted it to go out.

Among the other stories was one about their gambling. Washington was said to have lost $18,000 in a single night's play. The game, according to the story, was baccarat, which was stopped when the name of the club was changed to the Madison club, said the Tobiasses were not now members of the club. An effort had been made to rid the club of objectionable persons and improve effort had been made to rid the club of objectiona-ble persons and improve its tone by vigorous re-form measures. The first intimation of misuse of money was understood to come from a request made by the young men to their mother to convert some property into cash. This she found by the will she could not do, and the discovery ensued. Some money was left the men by their grandfather, but not much.

CONVICTION IN JOHNSON.

An Old Man Found Gullty of the Murder of Ills Son-in-Law.

Perry, a promising young man of Johnson county, led to the bridal altar, Miss Jennie county, a promising young man of Johnson county, led to the bridal altar, Miss Jennie Price, a gladsome, blue-eyed, bonny bride, of fifteen summers. The parents of the child-bride opposed the union, and encouraged the suit of another young man of the same bailiwick, Mandal Powell. The gods favored the suit of Perry much to the displeasure of the bride's patents and the chagrin and disappointment of Powell. The notice over the ointment of Powell. The nuptials over, the pointment of Powell. The nuptials over, the bride was taken to the cottage prepared for her, and for six months, the voyage over life's sea. was a calm, heavenly sail. Not a breath of discord swept over the tranquii household, not a zephyr to ruffle the calm sea. The young husband little dreamed that a terrific storm was brewing, one to sweep away his wife, his happiness, and at last his life. The happy anticipation of an heir within six months was ruthlessly torn from his bosom. On a sultry day in July last, after returning from his labors, tired, weary and expecting to find a fair form at the gateway, a sweet, welcoming smile, those weary and expecting to find a fair form at the gateway, a sweet, welcoming smile, those things that make the bitterness of life sweet, the heart of Romanus Perry must have almost burst asunder, when, on entering the house, where everything that met his gaze was associated with pleasant memeries, all that greeted him was, a sheet of paper, dumb messenger, that told the awful news. "The wife of his bosom hat eloped." There was but one version, and like instinct, the thought, lightening-like, inashed across his mind, his former rival had obtained the treasure. The truant wife then sheltered under the paternal roof, was there welcomed. The heart-broken husband then sought her up, but was denied admission by his father-in-law, Warren Price. Notwithstanding the deserted husband was denied admission to see his wife, the former lover and paramour now, was welcomed by the father of the 27th days of transmitted. and paramour now, was welcomed by the fa-ther. During the introduction of the state's evidence, Price remained unmoved, and sat in a listless, careless manner, occasionally stroking his long, flowing beard. Very little revelant testimony, justifying the kiling, was introduced, although his counsel contested every inch of ground and examined eleven witnesses. Three days were consumed in the trial. Two speeches were made on both sides. The principal speeches were those of Judge Twiggs for the prisoner, and Colonel Stubbs for the state. The jury retired at dark on the night of the third day, and arrived at a verdict of "guilty without mercy" rived at a verdict of "guilty without mercy" within an hour from the time they retired although their verdict was made up in ten minutes. The police were searching for Belcher last night, but at last accounts had not succeeded in arresting him. The occurrence is not only a sad one for the families of the unfortunate men, but must be very much regretted by the good citizens of Browneville.

Yesterday morning about 10 o'clock Fred Mason and Jim Salisbury, two negro boys about sixteen or seventeen years of age, were sitting on the bridge at the brickyard tampering with a shot gun. Fred Mason had the gun in his hand, when Jim Salisbury asked him to let him see it. The gun was to Jim and he began to tamper with the hammer. The gun was very easy on trigger, and when Jim pulled the hammer back and turned it loose, it flew down on the cap and the whole load entered the side of Mason's head, laying bare his brain and killing him instantly. Salishury cays himself up and instantly. Salisbury gave himselt up and was placed in jail, but was afterwards re-leased, as the relatives of the deceased declined to prosecute him. Coroner Brooks summoned a jury and held an inquest. After an investigation the jury arrived at the conclusion that the killing was accidental.

campbell County News: A bold attempt was made on Monday night to blow open the safe of Messrs Hearn & Foster. The party or parties entered the house through the window in the rear, and commenced operations by dilling a hole in the safe door, near the dial plate, and putting in blasting powder. When the blast was made, if forced the outside of the door about an eighth of an inch; beyond this no damage was done, as the safe opened as well next morning as before. These safe-blowings are becoming quite frequent, and a great deal of precaution should be used by those who are so fortunate as to possess these cumberous purses. The thieves got away with a double-barreled shotgun, which was the only article missed. Monroe Advertiser: Last week we received inrestigate the matter.

Monroe Advertiser: Last week we received inormation of a murder committed by a negro girl twelve years old, in this county, which indicates trange and horrible brutality. On the place of Mr Warren Bush is a negro woman named Phillis, but whose other name our informant could not give. She was the mother of two childrenbout two years old and the other four-and she had hired this girl, whose name was not given us, as nurse for the children, while she was engaged at her work. Two weeks ago last Saturday the youngest child died and was buried. On the next Mor lay evening, when the mother returned home from her work, she found that the other child was missing. The nurse could give no intelligent count of its absence, but said it had gone away when she was not looking after it closely. A search was instituted, and all the neighbors' visited, but no clue to the missing child could be ound. At last-after some hours-under repeated uestioning, the nurse said the child had fallen in o the well. Grappling books were obtained, and he dead body of the missing child was drawn from the well. The girl persisted, for a long time, in saving that the child fell in the well, but at last she admitted that she had thrown it in for the pur pose of drowning it. Her reason was that she was tired of nursing and wanted to get rid of her charge, so that she might be allowed to go beek to her home. It was then recollected, that the younger child, who had died the preceding Saturday, had some bruises on its body, and this gave rise to the su picion that the nurse had brought about or hastened its death by violence The girl appears unmoved by her horrible crime When some one suggested that she ought to be severely whitped, one said: "They'd better not whip me hard, if they do, I'll burn the house down." Such depravity it seldem falls to us to record. Strange to say, our informant stated that the girl had not been arrested, and no legal steps had been taken in the matter. taken in the matter. A Candid Opinion.

DECISONS RENDERED TUESDAY. APRIL 10, 1888

James Jackson, Chief Justice; Martin J. Crawford and Samuel Hall, Associate Justices—Reported for The Constitution by J. H. Lumpkin, Supreme Court Reporter.

Turner vs. Western and Atlantic railroad.

Non suit from Whitfield. Railroads. Damages. Negligence. Not suit. Actions.
Crawford, J.—I. A declaration against a railroad for damages alleged as follows: Plaintiff entered one of defendant's trains as a passenger, and took his seat as such. It was a freight train with the usual cab and accomodations for bassengers provided on such trains. Before the provided on such trains. Before and impounded.

(b) If the rights of the owner have been violated, she has a remedy not only against the marshal, but against the mupassengers provided on such trains. Before entering it, he inquired of the engineer if the latter would stop at Tilton. The latter replied that he did not know, but that they would stop at Beardsley's he knew, and plaintiff could walk the balance of the way. Upon this statement, plaintiff entered the car orderly and decently, with the money to pay his season. statement, plaintiff entered the car orderly and decently, with the money to pay his passe, and therby became a passenger of said company and entitled to all privileges and treatment incident to that relation. Being thus situated, the conductor in charge of the train entered, and plaintiff asked him the same question that had been asked of the engineer, when the said conductor and servant of the company, whilst thus being treated with about matters in the line of his duty and without provocation, cursed abused. duty and without provocation, cursed abused and ill-treated plaintiff, striking him over the head and face with a large lantern from five to seven blows, thereby bruising, wounding and cutting him in the head, face and lips, and finally knocking him out of the car door and causing him to fall across the iron on the track, producing a severe injury of the back and hips, which continues a great source of pain and expense, etc:

Held, that this declaration was not an action brought for a breach of contract in not carrying plaintiff as a passenger on defendant's train, but was an action of trespass on the case, and the holding of the judge to the contrary was error.

2. The action being one ex delicto, amendments describing the tort more accurately should have been allowed.

3. There was sufficient testimony to carry the case to the jury, and the granting of the nonsuit was erroneous.

(a). We do not hold that the defendant is liable; that will depend upon all the circumstances of the case; but only that there was sufficient to earry the case to the jury.

Lewis et al. vs. Board of Commissioners of Roads and Revenues of Gordon county. Illegality, from Gordon. Auditors. Parties. Res adjudicata. Practice in Superior Court. Bonds. Officers. Contracts. Principal and surety. Estoppel.

Hall, J.—1. Where a case was referred to an auditor, who reported thereon in favor of the plaintiff, the report was accepted by the court, and opportunity given to all parties to except, if they failed to do so within the time prescribed by the order, or having excepted there was a finding against them, the judgment should have been entered in favor of the plaintiff upon the report. (a.) Two fi. fas. were issued againt a county treasurer and his sureties, for his default in paying over taxes. The treasurer and his sureties separately filed affidavits of illegality to each of these fi. fas., and the cases were returned to the superior court. The affidavits of the principal and sureties were attached to the fi. fas. to which they were respectively applicable; and the two cases were entered on the docket. Both cases against principal and sureties were referred to an auditor to take the account between the treasurer and the county. A report was made in each, finding the amounts due on each respectively; and leave was given to except thereto. The principal alone excepted, and his exceptions were disallowed:

Held that the sureties were parties to this

Held that the sureties were parties to this proceeding and were bound as to the amounts o found. A suit admits of various defences by all or each of the defendants, but each separate defence does not make a new and distinct suit. (b). It makes no difference that the sureties did not appear before the auditor or except to his report. They had an opportunity to do both, and if they chose to rely upon their principal to defend for them, they must abide the consequences. Besides, one purpose pose of the reference was to settle in a single proceeding the entire question of amounts.

EXPECTORANT

Is composed of Herbal and Muchlaginous products, which permeate the substance of the Lungs, expectorates the acrid marter that collects in the Brozehal Tubes, and forms a soothing conting, which relieves the irritation that causes the cough. It cleanes the lungs of all impurities, strengthems them when enfectied by disease, invigorates the circulation of the blood, and braces the nervous system. Slight colds often end in consumption. It is dangerous to neglect them. Apply the remedy promptly. A test of twenty years warrants the assertion that no remedy has ever been found that is apprompt in its effects as IUT'S EMPETORANI. A single dose raises the phicgm, subdues inflammation, and its use speedly cures the most obtainate cough. A pleasant cordial, children take it readily. For Croup it is invaluable and should be in every family.

GRATITUDE.

Denver, Col., Aug. 29, 1882.

Gents—I cannot find words with which to express my gratitude to you for the cure your Swift's Specific has effected in my case. I was afflicted with the horrible blood disease for three years, and after spending some time at the Hot Springs, considered my case a hopeless one. I used only one dozen small bottles of S. S. S. and there is not a sign of the disease remaining. My sores are all healed, my throat is seen so many hundreds of men dosed with Calomel, Iodide of Mercury and Iodide of Potash, until they were made complete wrecks, that I shudder to think of the misery which has been brought on the human family by the use of Mercurials for Blood Diseases. It is a crying shame that physiciars will not acknowledge the the merit of your GRAND Blood Medicine. Use my name as you wish.

DR. HAMILTON GRIFFIN has given some valu able information, which it would be well for theatrical mashers to bear in mind. Miss Mary Anderson has one big brother, who towers to the height of six feet, and she has another fast approaching that figure. Cards can be sent in by the waiter.

THE Shorter will case, which has been de cided in favor of maintaining the will, is one of the most notable which has been held in the courts of this state. The amount of money involved was more than it falls to the lot of many men in the south to possess, and the array of counsel on both sides was imposing.

Two great men have looked into the watery depths of each other's eyes in a Floridian glade. Arthur and Tiger Tail have met. The president saw a man who takes his rum straight whenever he can get it, and the subchief beheld the destroyer of many a well mixed cocktail. One was only a shivering red man; the other a well-fed dude.

THE story told from Johnson county is a romance, with the elements of light and shade, deepening toward its close in a bloody tragedy. A fifteen year-old bride is enticed away from her husband by her father in order that she may receive the addresses of a paramour. The husband is finally murdered by his father-in-law, for which act it is adjudged that he must pay the forfeit of his

EGYPT is beginning to realize, it is stated, that cotton is an exhaustive crop-that it takes out of the soil more than the Nile can put back on it. Land which produced twelve years ago 98 pounds of cotton an acre now yields only 20 pounds. The fertility of the land is nearly exhausted, and a change in crops must soon take place. The present rate of yield has nearly beggared the people who till the soil, and the ruling class are puzzling their brains to find a solution of the distress ing problem.

GEORGIA should be well represented at the Louisville exposition, which will be opened on the 1st of Au ust. Atlanta certainly will not let this chance go by unimproved. The great northwest will be there, and every member of that great community will be apt to look for the products of the city that held the first cotton exposition. The Louisville exposition is to be a very extensive affair; it will be of vast benefit to all the southern country, and Georgia should of ail the southern states promote the enterprise and be in a position to share its benefits.

THE inland revenue commissioner of Canada has refused to permit American whisky to cross the line free of duty in packages less than 100 gallons. This spoils the plans of the Kentucky distillers who proposed to escape taxation upon their whisky by withdrawing it for temporary export to Canada. They now talk of sending to the Bermudas and Nassau from either Brunswick or Pensacola. It is thought they will not send it to either place, preferring to accept a reduced price and quickened sales. If the Kentucky men adhere to this determination they will be apt to crowd the cheaper compound whisky of Peoria and Chicago out of the best markets.

SOUTHERN COTTON GOODS OUT WEST. The New England manufacturers of coarse cotton goods are certainly not very modest when they ask the railroad companies to re imburse them for the disadvantages they are under in competition with the southern mills for the trade of the northwest. The railroads have about as much as they can do to carry their own watered burdens without taking up those of the New England mills. The latter had better accept the situation at once, and go to work to make fine goods. If they do not do this, the south will soon begin to make fine as well as coarse goods, and then a howl will go up from the camp the monopolists. The truth is, the New England mills have so long depended upon subsidies of one kind or another that they are not willing to give their rivals a fair field. In this case they cannot help themselves. The south has as good advantages in transportation as she has in the manufacture of cheap cotton goods. Our railroads send iong trains of empty cars back to the northwest every day, and if New England wants a rate war over cotton goods, we say let her have it. The south is now able to supply itself with cheap cotton goods, and it proposes without much delay to also supply the prosperous section from which it draws many other classes of supplies. We now buy from the west, but the west buys nothing from us. Fair dealing and ordinary business sense will lead the west to prefer southern goods, other things being equal. Southern railroads will, of course, see that the New England mills obtain no undue advantage, and the whole question as to which set of mills shall supply the northwest with sheeting and other coarse goods will be simply

s as it should be. THE BUSINESS OUTLOOK

Money is easy in New York, the crop pros pects are improving in the northwest as the weather becomes milder, the movement of crops to the seaboard is well maintained, and the spring trade bids fair to come up to early expectations. Money is now flowing to New | ghastly hue since his visit to Cannes, is felt by his

York from all parts of the country, and no fear is expressed of any currency trouble in that great monetary center. The prospects for a large wheat crop in California and in Kansas are now considered good, and every day lessens the per centage of damage from winterkilling in the other wheat growing states. This excellent outlook has operated to depress the price of wheat, corn and oats, and the farmers are sending their corn to market very fast in anticipation of warm weather. Unless some disaster that cannot now be foreseen overtakes the winter wheat crop, it will probably be equal to that of last year. The railroads are kept busy in moving wheat and corn to the seaboard and in carrying back merchandise. Railroad earnings were never much better. There are, it is true, some complaints about the spring trade, but taken as a whole it is of an encouraging nature, and northern merchants will become hopeful as the roads and weather become better. The situation is altogther brighter than it was a week ago; and even Wall street is participating in the change. Values are going up after a long period of stagnation, and securities are in demand. The reported placing of the Georgia Pacific loan is, if confirmed, vidence that a change has taken place in Wall street, which has of late been the dullest and gloomiest place in New York. If there are no great strikes in the iron trade, no unexpected failures of large proportions, and no crop disasters-this is, we admit, a large contingencythe remainder of the year promises to be as prosperous as the first three months were bar-

"By whose authority?" asked Judge Gresham. "By Instructions from Washington," was the reply. "But whose instructions?" The rejoinder was, if not evasive, unsatisfactory. Five suicides of an unusual or curious kind are reported from Europe. Monte Carlo is responsible for two of them. One was the case of a Lyons commercial traveler who lost 8,000, belonging to commercial traveler who lost s,ow, belonging to his employer and failed to induce the Casino managers to extricate him from his difficulty; the other that of Count Martini, who had met with heavy losses at the gaming tables. Two of the others occurred in Paris and in the same house. A young man had embezzled 40,000t. His aunt, with whom he lived, he had been pressed to induce to sell her shop to make good the loss. He had resell her shop to make good the loss. He had re-fused to do this, but had offered to pay back the sum out of his salary. His employers declined to accept that form of settlement and took steps to prosecute him. In consequence of this unhappy state of his affairs both he and his aunt shot themugh the head. ## A WEALTHY DISTRICT.

From the Brooklyn Eagle

"There's really one great objection to our part of the country out there," sighed a Dakota man, wiping his mustache and stretching out for a talk. "To my mind it is a serious objection. We can't carry on a Baptist church with any kind of success." "Why not," demanded the New Utrecht farmer who was particularly interested in that denomination

"Well, we tried hard for a long time." replied the Dakota man, sizing up his victim. "We started in with a good congregation, money in the bank, bell, organ, a choir way up in G, everything to gladden the Baptist heart, but we couldn't make it winner any way we could fix it." don't see why not," said the New Utrech man. "Down our way we only have a preacher and mortgage, but we are garnering souls right straight "The trouble lay in our tanks," continued the Dakotian. "We would dig a tank, fill her up with water, start in to wash a convert, but they never came to the surface again. Couldn't understand it or a long time. Down they'd go one after another, but we couldn't haul 'em up again. The first Sun day ! we ] worked the first tank we lost twentyeight head o' soul!"

'What was the matter?" asked the New Utrecht

"We didn't find out till the next day when we enced skirmishing for the bodies. Then we found that in digging the tank we had struck a rich pocket that the water brought out strong, and every fellow that went down saw the glint, and went for it. Couldn't make 'em let go! They was all after it, and they stayed right there!" "Curious!" muttered the New Utrecht man.

"The second was worse than the first. We dug a new tank and had it assayed. There weren't but $200 to the bushel of ore, and we didn't suppose any ne would go for that, but the day we opened up we sunk 127 citizens. Yes, sir! And they was a dead loss to the church. We never got a hoof of em back alive!

"What was the matter that time?" demand ed the stonished farmer.

"Why, it turned out that we hit the tail end of a blind lead, and as fast as we dipped the converts they began to stake out. We couldn't do much for em that day because it was Sunday, but the next day we fished 'em out dead; every mother's man of "Strikes me there must be lots of gold in that intry," mused the New Utrecht man.

"There's where the trouble is," conceded the other, watching him carefully. "But we didn't give up. That week we dug another tank, and we just emented it all around, so as to make sure of geting the unregenerated back, but we didn't fetch. Luck seemed all against us."
"What was the matter this time?"
"We sent down fourteen for a fiver, and not a man I 'em came back to explain what kept him. Mon-of 'em came back to explain what kept him. Mon-day we went at that tank again, and we found that the mud we had used for cement was worth $600 to the ounce. It was the ricest dirt in the territory."

The New Utrecht man tried to conceal the watering of his mouth, and the Dakota man pretended not to see it.

"We tried it in every way we could think of, but they caught us every time," continued the gentleman from Dakota. "Of course, the church made a great deal of money out of it, because the fame of our tanks got out and we used to charge from $500 to $1,000 a head for baptism, but it didn't swell the conscregation any. We was winners in material wealth, but we didn't have enough people to divide it among. At last we got to baptising each other until there was no one left but me, and I rented out the fourteen tanks we had at a million a piece for a year and I'm traveling to shake off my grief over our lost church." ef over our lost church."
'And you still hold the plant?" demanded the

"And you still hold the plant?" demanded the New Utrecht man, eagerly.
"For sure!" replied the Dakota man, indignantly. "You don't suppose I'd sell out my church, do you?"
"Fot to a good Baptist who would like to see if hecouldn't fix those thanks to they would hold the perishing souls that went down into them?"
"I hadn't thought of that," muttered the Dakota man. "Are you willing to take such a responsibility on your hands? I tell you frankly that it's no use of trying to make a tank in that country that will hold Christians and let 'em come up again. It can't be done, because the ground's too full of gold."
"Are you willing to sell the plant to a man who knows how to work it so that every man that goes in comes out again?" and the New Utrecht man's

"I might her you have murmured the Dakota man, hesitatingly. I a safraid to trust you with any more. Your scheme might fail and I'd never forgive myself."
"Try me!" yelled the New Utrecht man, glowing all over with anucipation. "Let me have that tank and see if I don't carry conviction to the nearts of the unregenerate and without losing 'em either!" the unregenerate and without losing 'em either!" the unregenerate and without losing 'em either!"
"I'll try you on one tank," consented the Dakota man, after a long pane. "You can have one tank for three thousand. The figure is merely nominal and I put it in to save the church's franchise. Say three thousand and I'll let you try your hand!"
Parties desirous of buying half an acre of rocks in the Dakota bad lands can find a seller by standing on the outskirts of New Utrecht and listening for the sound of weeping and wailing audgnashing of teeth.

A BOOK BY BILL ARP.

It is remembered that shortly after the war an rishman in New York, whose name was John Mulaly, published an edition of Bill Arp's letters, and ssued a thousand copies, which speedily found sale. He was preparing to issue another edition when the rampant republicans of that city bombarded his office and broke him up. Our friend Bill got nothing from the venture, and became disgusted with the book business. Mullaly was a terriele "rebel," and edited the Metropolitan Record. Like all Irishmen, he had more patriotism than prudence, and as Bill Arp's sentiments were not humble or penitential, John was mobbed and his flice broken up. On yesterday there was exhibited copy of this old book at the stand of Mr. Burke, n Wall street, and it was sold for five dollars. When we learned of this sale we could not help thinking and wondering why our friend William Arp did not get up another book and compile the best of his letters and some of the new into book orm, and have them illustrated by a good artist and give our people a book. This would drive away the blues and brighten up the family hearth and do us all good. Why not? We believe that he could select from his numerous letters enough to make a book that would find a welcome at every fireside in the southern land. We heartily wish he would do it.

THAT POKER GAME.

New York Sun. The Philadelphia poker telegram published a few days ago in all the morning papers proves to have been a fabrication. To begin with, "Tom" Scott died long ago, and could consequently not play poker on this occasion, while his son "Jim" is too good a friend of John Tucker to drive him into a $54,000 bet. He knew that Mr. Tucker would have been greatly embarrassed to pay that amount if he had lost the bet. Then, again, though Mr. Tucker, Mr. Scott, and a few friends play a game of poker every Saturday, they never play an unlimited game. It is mostly $50 limit, and once in a while, $100. meet, not at the club, but at the They meet, not at the club, but at the Bellevue hotel. They were very much annoyed by the published report, and made up their minds not to take notice of it, and not to answer anything even to the inquiries of their best friends. There is, however, good reason to believe that the straight flush which Mr. Tucker held against Mr. Scott's four queens did not bring him even one-tenth of the above mentioned sum. A still more extraordinary deal was played recently in a fashionable up-town resort in this city. There were seven well-known men in the game. The dealer had passed out. Of the other six players one had three fours, one a flush, one a full hand, one four sixes, one four sevens, and one four cights. The limit was $25 and the pot rose to about $1,100. The man who took it was the oldest, most respected, and most liberal player of the party.

A HIVE OF INDUSTRY.

From the Birmingham Age.

Birmingham can be, and will be, a teeming hiv of industry. Every day gives abundant evidences of this. Scarcely a week passes but the city is vis ted by capitalists from a distance. Only last week two parties of English capitalists were here, and they will continue to come. Without an excepon, no place in the United States offers so many nducements to manufacturers. Cheap coal and fron, in such abundance, and such quality as we have here, would be the problem as to the future of any city. In of such quality as we have here, would solve the problem as to the future of any city. In truth, we do not confide ourselves to Birmingham alone, for no region of country in the United States has any brighter future than north Alabama. The day is coming when this section of the state will be threaded with railroads, and thickly dotted over with thrifty villages, above which will gracefully curl the smoke of many a furnace, rolling mill, and cotton mill. #### THE IERSEY FEVER IN THE NORTHWEST From the Farmer's Home Journal.

It is hardly necessary to say that the Jersey is fancy and, at present, in common phrase, "all the o." Jersey sales of late have been like feasts where there are not enough of the chief viands to go round. This "craze" or whatever else you may call it, extends not only to imported and registered call it, extends not only to imported and registered cattle, but even to high grades; and hundreds on these find eager purchasers in every town and vil lage, and on most of the farms, too. The quie little consumer of short rations and producer of large butter rolls has fairly won its way into the recognition of the lordly shorthorn breeder. Although to do this it had to remove a mountain of prejudice. To say that Jersey cattle are in demand in the west is sneaking mildly indeed. Merchants want them, bankers buy them, clerks pay cash for want them, bankers buy them, clerks pay cash for hem, lawyers lie in wait for them, dairymen can jo without them, capitalists shut their eyes and bi or them, and even the children cry for a Jerse

. ONE CENT DAMAGES.

A Girl's Suit Against a Priest for the Loss of Som Boston, April 11.-The curious case of the child Lizzle Gannon against the archbishop and a priest for damages for loss of health occasioned by the taking away of some paper figures which she called angels was continued to-day. The court expressed the opinion that the archbishop was entitled to a verdict, and thereupon counsel for plaintiff agreed that a verdict of "not guilty" should be taken gainst him. Counsel Whitney made the opening argument. He stated that the bits of paper were given voluntarily by the girl to Father Fleming. The bits of paper were put into a pill-box, the bo tom of which dropped out, and the papers were lost. The priest thought little of it at the time The girl Lizzie was sick and had in which she she feaw dead claimtrances, that ed that she law dead persons. After the trances had been going on some time, Father Fleming was called and told of them. The parents told him he must hold her hands together to talk, which he did, not knowing why. The little girl did not know she had received any dolls. She cried when she was told so, because she could not remember, and the defense claims that some one in the house put the papers in the box and then instilled into the mind of the child that the papers were of supernatural origin. Father Fleming put the papers into his pocket. On another visit, she let him take it from the pocket and she kissed it, and as he held it the head fell off. He had no peakife and did not tear it. The child felt grieved, Fleming found the girl laughing and as well as she ever was in her life. What was the disease affecting the child? One which the doctor called bysteria, affecting the imagination and will, but not the intellect, and attending the change in life. One of the most prominent characteristics is the great desire for notoriety, and if the surroundings are such as to humor the desire the disease increases. The paper images then were obtained with the child's consent; no demand was made for them, and the call a year after surprised Father Fleming, and the confiscquences were the natural development of the disease, and this development has been fostered by the surroundings and by others for purposes to be shown. Since then she has talked several times, has performed her numerous household duties, and has even shoveled snow off the sidewalk. Roach testified that in May, 1882, he was sent for by a friend of the Gannons to see the child; was re-Roach testined that in May, 1882, he was sent for of a friend of the Gannens, to see the child; was re fused admittance by the parents, who said the child was not in a fit condition to be seen; wen next dayand saw her in bed in a state of comaboth pupils of the eyes were contracted, and they did not respond to the light; formed an opinior that the child was under the influence of some narcotic. Mrs. Mary Wheelan testified that the child had averaged be a belief that when she was did not respond to the light; formed an opinion that the child was under the influence of some narcotic. Mrs. Mary Wheelan testified that the child had expressed her belief that when she was eighteen she could be developed into a medium and then could tell fortunes. The girl's mother, she said, did not wish her to speak of this to the priest. Father Fieming was put upon the stand. He said he had regarded the whole matter as trivial. He did not attach any importance to the paper, nor did he suppose that any one did except the girl herself, momentarily, and she soon got over her crying and appeared quite pacified when she had received the girl of the basket of flowers, which he sent to pacify her. After a while he lost the images, so that he could not restore them. He attached no more importance to their loss than to the loss of a pln. He had become convinced that the child could have talked if she wished, though diseased, and that her silence was deception. The jury retired and returned a verdict for one cout damages against Father Fleming.

FIVE TIMES A MURDERER. n Arkansas Man in Jall and Charged With Several

LITTLE ROCK, April 11.-John Shadowen is the name of a late resident of Mississippi county, who is now under arrest, with five charges of murder hanging over his head. He came originally from Lincoln county, Kentucky, where he is said to have committed the five murders referred to. His firs one was the killing of one Berry Davis, in 1862, and he is charged with having afterwards murdered a Dr. Bell, one Read, and two confederate soldiers, whom he put out of the way by cutting their throats. He married and removed to Arkansas, under the assumed name of William Owens, where he remained undiscovered for years, with a reward on his head and his wife ignorant of his real name and his crimes. A few days after his arrival in Arkanasa he told his wife her mother was dead and that he had no relatives, striving to thus cut off all communication with their old home. A short time ago the wife undertook to write a letter to a friend in Lincoln county, Kentucky. Shadowen came in and seeing the letter began to curse her, and crying out: "You want to get me hung." struck her a terrible blow on the back of the head, from the effects of which she lost her reason. During her ravings she talked wildly of the old Kentucky home, and the fact becoming public the sheriff despatched a large number of letters to that state, one of which fell into the hands of the woman's mother, near stanford. She immediately forwarded money and her unfortunate daughter was brought home and the murderer arrested. Upon the same day that Mrs. Shadowen received that cowardly blow their two little children died most mysteriously, and it is thought by some that they were murdered by their unnatural father. Shadowen declares his entire innocence, but the case looks decidedly the other way, and it will be a queer thing if he is not convicted and hanged in short order. he remained undiscovered for years, with a reward

Mr. Jefferson Davis, in his speech at New Orleans Friday on Albert Sidney Johnston, delivered at the ceremony of laying the corner stone of a monu-ment to the dead leader, said that the people of New Orleans were about to raise a monum man whose equal was not to be found in history. Louisiana was especially a place for a monument to Albert Sidney Johnston because his first commis sion in the army was from that state. He was a ca-Louisiana. det of had-General Johnston on many trying cir-cumstances, and in cases of extreme peril, and he had never seen a man whose purposes were so fixed, whose mind was calmer, whose daring greater, than Albert Sydney Johnston. In intellect he was great and morally sublime. His life was devoted to duty. It was in the discharge of the that he died on the field of Shiloh in the nof victory, when probably one has f hour more of victory, when probably one has hour more would have made Grant a prisoner or a fugitive. Dying, he left the record of a statuless life and a great name, and that good reputation without which glory is put an empty sound. No language could convey what the speaker's heart desired to express concerning General Johnston. When Albert Sidney Johnston had come to offer his services for the far it had seemed to him that a strong pillar was placed under the confederacy, and when he fell at Shiloh it appeared that the mightiest column that sustained the cause had fallen, shattered to the ground. He was so calm, daring, intrepid and immovable that everybody gave way to him. His love of liberty was so great that when he went to Texas to espouse his cause he sought no office, but gladly served in the ranks.

Such merits as his were like a light that could not be hid under a bushel. General Zachary Taylor recognized his merits, but General Johnston ren-sladly served in the ranks.

Such merits as his were like a light that could not be hid under a bushel. General Zachary Taylor recognized his merits, but General Johnston rendered services for which he was never rewarded. Little politicians were searched for all over the land to be made generals in the army of Mexico, but Sidney Johnston could not get promotion. These little politicians showed more sense than the appointing power, for they got the lieutenants in the army to tell them what to do. Men were given appointments not for their abilities, but for their politicial standing. This kind of civil service reform would not do. The speaker could say nothing which his auditors did not know of Sidney Johnston. He appreciated the generous natures which prompted the deconation of the graves of the confederate dead, and which had inspired the erection of monuments for the confederate leaders. Ensi in history had been marked by great military chieftains, and it was seldom that a single generation produced even one. Mr. Dayis thought he might defy criticism when he said that the confederacy had three great leaders who would compare with the leaders of antiquity or any in modern times. Fighting the whole world almost, without sufficient arms, ammunition and transportation, history would do justice to the confederate army and the southern people, who sustained the proudest record of the power of intellect to combat with matter that the world has ever witnessed. Mr. Dayis, in conclusion, said he spoke to men who were more than historians because they comoat with matter that the word has ever wil-nessed. Mr. Davis, in conclusion, said he spoke to men who were more than historians because they were the subjects of history and could realize the greatness of the character of Albert Sidney John-

At the banquet in the evening Mr. Davis reiterated his statement that the confederacy had produced three great generals, and New Orleans was honoring each with a memorial—Lee, Jackson and Albert Sidney Johnston. Ex-Senator James B. Eustis ventured at the banquet to pay a tribute to General Joseph E. Johnston, but it elicited manifestations of a different character from those which Mr. Davis drew out. General Beauregard was absent in Mobile, and it is noticed that he and Mr. Davis do not allow themselves to meet on occasions Davis do not allow themselves to meet on o

How to Descend the Tariff Ladder.

From the Brooklyn Eagle. It is a mistake to suppose that the democracy demands absolute free trade. They are not such ools. They believe that revenue reform means triff reduction by easy stages; not abrupt and to-tal abolition of the tariff. They would not have the country commit the Sam Patch folly of jump-ing from the top of the ladder, it is too far from the ground. They desire to see it descend in the safe and natural way, round by round.

THE OLD CLOCK. The old clock crooms on the sun-kissed wall,
Tick, tock! tick, tock!
The merry second to minutes call;
Tick, tock! 'Tis morn!

A maiden sits at the mirror there, And smiles as she braids her golden Oh, in the light, but her face is fair! Tick, tock! tick, tock!

Far over the sea the good ship brings The lover of whom the maiden sings; From the orange tree the first leaf springs; Tick, tock! tick, tock!

The old clock laughs on the flower-decked wall,
Tick, tock! tick, tock!
The rose-winged hours elude their thrall;
Tick, tock! 'Tis noon!

The lover's pride and his love are blest; The maiden is folded to his breast; On her brow the holy blossoms rest; Tick, tock! tick, tock! Oh, thrice, thrice long may the sweet bells chime As echolog this thro' future time! Still to my heart beats that measured rhyme, Tick, toek! tick tock!

The old clock means on the crumbling wall,
Tick, tock! tick, tock!
The drear years into eternity fall;
Tick, tock! Tis night!

The thread that you spider draws with care Across the gleam of the mirror there Seems like the ghost of a golden hair; Tick, tock! tick, tock!

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., April 11 .- Late this afternoon the last spike was driven at the Tennessee and Kentucky state line, connecting the Knoxville kentucky state line, connecting the knoxylile branch of the Louisville and Nashville railroad with the East Tennessee railroad. This makes a direct line from Knoxylle to Louisville, 260 miles, On the Tennessee side, near the state line, are five tunnels in one mile. The Knoxylle branch cuts through the large coal fields, and new mines will be developed immediately. Within six weeks Knoxylle will have direct connection with Cinciunati over the Kentucky Central railroad.

session at St. Louis, a large number of prominent railroad men from various parts of the United States will be in attendance. The subject of standard time, which has been discussed at previous meetings, will be brought up again, and doubtless various plans will be suggested for the adoption of a standard time for the running of trains. W. F. Allen, the publisher of the official Railway Guide, who has given the matter considerable study and attention, will propose a plan which seems to be as practical as any likely to be suggested. Mr. Allen's plan is to divide the United States into probably four sectious, running north and south. The difference in time between the boundaries of each section to be an hour, and the time at the center of each section to be adopted for running the trains within that section. By the adoption of this pian all the roads in the Unied States will use only four different times, instead of the large number now used. The plan will also greatly lighten the labor of making up time tables, and calculations can be readily made, as the changes in time from one section to the adjoining one will always be an hour, and not as at present, hours or fractions of an hour.

"Mr. Scott, you are back from your southern trip, and I should like to know how your roads down there look, as also how soon we may expect the boom which will set in when your road gets through to New Orleans?"

boom which will set in when your road gets through to New Orleans?"

"I nad a very good trip, and was very much pleased to receive Chief Engineer Bouscaren's favorable reports upon the condition of affairs, which I was able to supplement in great part by my own observation. The track is laid for a distance of forty-five miles from Meridian, and a train is being run each way daily, doing a very nice business. The indications for local Dushness are very good, there being several stores built or in the course of erection at each station, while there is very active inquiry for timber flands, and several sawmills have already been located."

"When do you think the road will be opened right through?"

"So hear as we can at present see, it will be about the 1st of September."

"How is the Shreveport road progressing?"

"It is not doing so well as the New Orleans road. The contractors have had a good deal of trouble, but things look much better now. I am arranging to change the gauge or the operated part of the road, betweet Delta and Monrie, from five feet six inches to the standard gauge, four feet eight-and-a-half inches."

Whisky Coming South. The New York Commercial Advertiser says: The

One house alone has now between 3,00 and 4,000 bbls of whisky there, where it is to remain from one to two years. The temperature of Bermuda will average about 70 degrees for the year, while in Canada the temperature is for about four monthe out of the year below zero, and it is a uniform heat that is required to mature whisky. The principal opposition in Canada comes from the native distillers, as the importation of American whisky there would cause a strong competition. As an illustration, alcohol is selling here at 36c per gallon, while the Canadian distillers receive 90c per gallon. Now, if we were allowed to ship our alcohol there it would reduce the price of the Canadian article to about 40c a gallon, and their whisky would be affected at about the same ratio."

The Tennessee Commission The railroad commission bill passed by the Ter nessee general assembly, and approved by the gov ernor, applies only to lines already constructed. It authorizes the appointment of three commissioners by the governor, and fixes the term of office at two by the governor, and fixes the term of office at two years from January 1st of the present year. Their successors are to be elected by the people in November, 1884, and every two years thereafter. Discrimination in freight or passenger rates is prohibited, but contracts for special rates for developing industrial enterprises are allowed. In all cases of extortion the flujured party may recover ten times the amount of damage sustained. The commissioners are directed to institute a suit in any court of jurisdiction against all offiending roads, and whenever a verdict is rendered in favor of the state, they shall fix a penalty of not less than $100 ner more than $1,000 to be imposed on the defendant. Actions to recover damages must be commenced within six months after the cause of action accrues. Rates for transportation of freight shall not be considered excessivel if the net earnings of a road are only a just and fair return on its assessed valuation. The foregoing provisions take effect on the first of next July. The commissioners shall agree on a tariff of rates, which shall be posted at all depots, and no deviation is allowed therefrom. No road can make a contract with any other road or with a common carrier by water either for the transportation of freight. Written notice shall be given by the commissioners to roads on which necessary repairs should be made, and the proceedings must be embraced in their annual report to the legislature. Free passage must be given the commissioners while performing their duties. All companies, trustees, and receivers shall make annual returns of their business to the commissioners by the 1st of September in each year. These reports are to be made up years from January 1st of the present year. Their and receivers shall make annual returns of their business to the commissioners by the 1st of September in each year. These reports are to be made up at the close of business on the 30th of June next preceding. A neglect or refusal to furnish such a report is punishable by a fine of $100 for each day of such neglect or refusal. Annual reports shall be made to the governor by the commissioners on or before the 1st day of December. The bill does not apply to any railroad in course of construction, or which may hereafter be begun or constructed, until ten years after it is completed.

The Memphis, Selma and Brunswick.

From the Memphis Appeal.

Major J. J. Busby, vice president of the Memphis, Selma and Brunswick railway, was met by representative of the Appeal yesterday afternoon and to a few questions propounded him we learned that efforts are being made looking to a resumption of work on that road.

"Then you believe the road will soon be finish-

"I don't think it will be long; I cannot say ex-"I don't think it will be long; I cannot say exactly when, but we are moving in the right direction. We cannot do anything yet, and not until we go over the road, make an actual estimate of the work done, and find out what is due our contractors. When that is done there will be no trouble in securing means necessary to finish up the work, after paying off the contractors what is due for all that has been done. I want to say that the statements published in the Avalanche Sunday morning in regard to a majority of the certificate holders rejecting the proposition to surrender one-half their certificates for first mortgage bonds, and that "a settlement is considered impossible," are false. On the contrary every certificate holder, present in person and by proxy, agreed to the proposition. I cannot see where the young man got his information. He came to me Saturday and I told him that I could not give him any information that would be of any interest whatever to the public or benefit to the road. The implications against Mr. Wolffe are also groundless, especially as to the insinantion that an effort is being made to get Mr. Wolffe out of the concern. As I told you on a previous eccasion, Mr. Wolffe's Alabama affairs have no connection with this road. It is true they have caused embarrassment in the financial status of the road. I have here letters from contractors now making propositions looking to an early resumpdon of work."

"You think the road a reality, not ideal?"

"Major Busby broke the seal of a letter while he was talking to us, the contents of which were as represented—propositions from responsible contractors to resume work on the road. Carey on the Stand-An Attack on the Runawa Leaguera.

Dublin, April 11.—The trial of Joe Brady, on the harge of murdering Cavendish and Burke, began this morning. Notwithstanding that it was known that absentees would be summarily fined one han that absentees would be summarily fined one hundred pounds, many of the jurors on the panel failed to appear. The swearing in of the jury occupied one nour, counsel for the prisoner having the right to challenge twenty. The case for the crown was opened by Mr. Porter. The first witness called was Farreil, the informer, who tes fided at the preliminary examination of the prisoner in Kilmainham courthouse. He repeated his testimony given at that time. James Carey, who also turned informer at the Kilmainham investigation, was the next witness. His evidence was the same as he had before given. Upon the conclusion of Carey's direct examination the court adjourned for the day. Carey's face was flushed while he was giving his evidence. Carey was in the witness box for an hour and three quarters. He gave a detailed account of the formation of the "Invincibles", but he was not allowed to go into the plots against the lives of Forster and Rafl Cowper, While Carey was testifying Brady followed the evidence closely, and frequently sent notes to his solicitor. Carey became perfectly cool in his demeanor towards the close of his evidence. One of the knives found in Ringland basin was produced in order that he might identify it as one of those supplied by Sheridan from London. Mr. Murphy, the crown counsel, has stated that the authorities know who "number one" is, and it is expected that the photograph of this mysterious person will be produced. dred pounds, many of the jurors on the panel know who "number one" is, and it is expected that the photograph of this mysterious person will be produced.

In his address opening the prosecution against Brady, Mr. Porter said this case should teach one lesson, that there could be no honor among the members of such a society. The men who had instigated and warmed it into life; the men who supplied it with funds which encouraged it to carry on its designs had fled to foreign lands. If there was any further proof required of how the conspirators deserted those who were unlawfully leagued with them, it was furnished by the fact that the crown had, even in this case, been compelled to provide the means for defending Brady from this terrible charge.

At the meeting of the Irish national league here to-day, the treasurer acknowledged the receipt from Australia of five thousand pounds from the Irish sympathizers in that country. The secretary read a letter from Mr. Redmond, who is agitating the question of Irish wrongs in Australia. It says that the developments in the Phenix park murder case are doing the lesgue much injury there, and have already materially interfered with his success.

DYNAMITE IN CANADA.

The Return of Princess Louise to be Delayed for Prudential Reasons.

Ottows, Ont., April 11.—Notwithstanding positive assurance from Superintendent Sherwood, of the dominion police, that the reported explosion in the eastern block was a canard, Detective Hodgin the eastern block was a canard, Detective Hodgins and four Toronto policemen who have been brought here, inspected the underground passage of the parliament building to-day, and have been granted permission to enternot only the building, but Rideau hall, at all hours, day and night. Although this fact is not generally known, considerable unessiness is manifested by members. The night watch, which is furnished by the dominion police, has been doubted and every precaution has been taken to prevent the possibility of evil disposed persons creating trouble. Detective Hodgins had an interview with Colonel De Winton in reference to some suspicious circumstances which took place at Rideau hall recently, and it is said the return of Princess Louise will be delayed on this account.

AN IRISH BILL REJECTED. Parliament Negatives Mr. Healey's Local Government

London, April 11.—The elective councils ("Ireland") bill, embodying Mr. Healey's scheme for local government in Ireland, was rejected by the day. They claim that this action is due to the opposition of Canadian distillers, who fear competition should the concessions asked by the United States dealers be granted. A prominent Broad street dealer said to a Commercial reporter this after all, the action of morning: "After all, the action of the Canadian government will have very little effect on our export business, for the reason that full arrangements have been made to export our whiskies to Bermuda, Liverpool and Nascau, N. P. The arrangements have ample to relieve the present distress in the market. We can ship from Kenucky direct to Bermuda to turn his back upon his former principles. He (Mr. Trevelyan) and many of his colleagues had supported a similar bill brought to by L. Isaac But when the tories were in power. He sincerely ship to Canada, and the advantages of Bermuds over Canada for ageing whisky are great. If the modifications asked were granted, a great deal of our whisky would necessarily go to the West Indies.

MARY ANDERSON.

THE BLACKMAILING SCHEME OF DOCTOR MARSHALL.

Gaining Money-What Mary's Father Hes to Say About It-Two Big Brothers That

New York, April 11 .- Dr. Hamilton Griffin, step

father and business manager of Miss Anderson, is in the city, and has been much besought as to the blackmeiling stories now afloat. At last he said: "I haven't time to bother with every loafer who wants to blackmail me. I know I haven't any. thing to conceal, and I'm quite certain Miss Anderson hasn't. But there are lots of people doing this sort of thing every day. I always turn them over to the police and bother myself no more about I suppose the way in which this last matter leaked out was through the post-office department. There have been frequent attempts to blackmail Miss Anderson, but I always treat the letters as I have told you. They are probably written by persons who do not know that Miss Anderson has a stepfather, a mother, and a big brother, who always travel with her and are quite able to protect her. She will soon have another big brother, for my son, Frank Griffin, only fifteen years old, has reached five feet ten inches, and weighs close to one hundred and fifty pounds." Dr. Griffin is about five feet eleven inches in height and though fifty years old is a fine athletic man who looks ten years younger than he is. Joseph Anderson, the "big brother." stands six feet in his tennis shoes; weighs one hundred and seventy pounds, and is a well trained athlete. Dr. Griffin's assertion about the family's ability to take care of Miss Anderson appears to be well founded. In further conversation Dr. Griffin stated that this had been the best season Miss Anderson has ever had. "Inever pay any attention to such letters." said the doctor, "but this time it was a little different. This man Marshall wrote a letter some time ago to Miss Anderson haderson have the had some persons who do not know that Miss been the best season Miss Anderson has ever had.

"Inever pay any attention to such letters," said the doctor, "but this time it was a little different. This man Marshall wrote a letter some time ago to Miss Anderson, wherein he stated that he had some property belonging to her that was valuable. It was nothing but a littly eand a photograph. They were sent to Miss Anderson, and of course I got them. Nobody would ever think they were taken for her, and everybody knows they were not. Whoever this blackmailer was I haven't found out yet, but he wanted $10,000 for returning these phoographs. This Mr. Manshall seems to be all right, and I guess he is. He simply sent on the pictures that had got into his possession. How they got there beats me. Well, I got several letters from Marshall, and several other letters signed 's aith, Hope and Charity'. These latter letters were quite modest at first, but I suspected at once a blackmailing scheme, and turned them over to the police, as I always do. They asked for money for suppressing something about Miss Anderson. Well, finding there was nothing to suppress, I let the whole thing drop. I wrote to Marshall at his postoffice address, box 187, Pittsburg, and got several letters from him. He seems to be innocent. He sim ply forwarded the 'Faith, Hope and Charity' letters. That's all there is to it."

Dr. Marshall, who is now in prison in Pittsburg, says: "About the middle of last December a package was handed in at my bouse. I opened it and found a letter signed 'Faith, Hope and Charity,' three pictures and a note requesting me to write to Miss Anderson and ask $10,000 for the pictures Well, I didn't know what to do about it; but I wrote to Miss Anderson and ask $10,000 for the pictures Well, I didn't know what to do about it; but I wrote to Miss Anderson saying that I had some things that were of value to her. I wrote twice, and Dr. Griffin responded to the second letter, asking me to send him the pictures. I replied saying that I would forward the picture's by express. I di

That's all I heard of the matter until I saw statements in the papers to-day."
"Have you any idea who the principals were?" the doctor was asked.
"I have an idea that they are ex-convicts. When I was across the river two years ago I heard some vague allusions that there would be a big scheme some day and I suppose this is it."
"Did the pictures resemble Miss Anderson?" (Well, I don't know; I didn't examine them closely. There were three pictures—two tintypes and one card. They were taken at different sittings."

and one card. They were taken at uniterest strings."

'Suppose Dr. Griffin had agreed to ray the $10,000: how were you to let the principals know?"

'The note said that I was to put the following perso al in the newspapers: 'O. K. Faith, Hope and Charity.' They were to make arrangements to receive the money, but as I said before. I merely handed the things over to Dr. Griffin. I wrote him that I would take my $10,000 in a check on the bank of eternity, and that I would help him to arrest the perpetrators. I don't know who they were and my only suspicion is that they are the ex-convicts. I am between the horns of a dilemma; for, according to the papers, I am either a ruscal or a fool, and I want to get in between the two."

A Town Captured by Revolutionists-The Roads Barricaded. NEW YORK, April 11.—The brig Letitia, Captain Potter, which arrived here from Miragoane, Hayti, to-day reports that ou March 27th, at 3 a. m., the revolutionary party, headed by Boyer Bazelais and General Barlow, with 103 men, well equipped with Winchester twelve-shooters, attacked and took the town without any opposition. Bazelais assured the people that they had nothing to fear from his party. He made no arrests. To all who joined him he gave Remington rifles. Most of the able-bodied men joined him. He began immediately to fortify men joined him. He began immediately to fortify the lown in a manner showing the people that he meant to hold it. The roads leading to the town he barricaded with barries two or three tiers high and filled with sand. Most women and children and sick and lame, who were afraid of the burning of the town were put on board of four vessels lying in the port. Up to the morning of the 29th no attack had been made by the government forces. No one was allowed to leave the town on any pretense.

It is believed that many of the killed have not been reported. At the Falmoranch ten were killed last Tuesday. Two women were hung up by the hands and ripped open; from one a child was taken, and it was found mangled at its mother's feet. Bodies of men were horribly mangled.

The Outrage Mill in South Carolina.

COLUMBIA, April 11 .- At a meeting of the state democratic executive committee to-day in this city a resolution was unanimously adopted to employ the best legal talent in the state to defend the prisoners charged with fraud and intimidation at the last election. Ex-Attorney-General Leroy Youlast election. Ex-Attorney-General Leroy You-mans and ex-Gevernor A. G. Magrath were chosen as the chief counsel. The outrage mill still grinds. Yesterday eleven arrests were made in Barnwell county, and to-day seventeen law abiding and re-spectable citizens of three of the lower counties were bound over to appear at court in Charleston next week. Altogether, about sixty arrests have been made. Judge Thomas J. Mackay, who was offered by the government the position of assistant attorney for the prosecution, has declined to en-gage in the work.

Alleged Imprisoned Nun.

MONTREAL, April 11.—Referring to the case of the un who wants to be released from the convent here, Bishop Fabre says: "This young nun is by no means kept in the institution against her will. She can, when she wishes, leave the convent, and no one will hinder her in her civil right to do so; but the young lady by her vows, with free will, assumed for five years certain obligations, which it is a matter of conscience for her to decide whether she is at liberty to abandon. In this personal matter no outside element has a right to interfere. Her release from the vows, which will now soon expire, was asked at Rome and refused."

End of the Tobacco Strike.

LYNCHBURG, April 11.—The strike of the tobacco operatives ended to-day, and the factories will resume to-morrow. The differences were compro-mised by an arbitration committee, composed of Judge David E. Spence, president of the Lynch-burg national bank for the manufacturers, and Judge Latham, of the Hustings court for the strikers. The main point of difference was the payment of the job hands from the wages of roll hakers, and was settled by an agreement that the operatives do part of this work, the manufacturers agreeing to pay for the rest. A little difference in prices was demanded and those were conceded.

BUFFALO, April 11.—Hattue Grant, said to belong to one of the first families of Toronto, gave birth to a baby yesterday and died to-day.

Washington, April 11.—In view of the passage at the last session of congress of a bill "to exclude the public lands in Alabama from the operation of the laws relating to mineral lands," the secretary of the interior has written to the district land officers in Alabama in part as follows: "In order to carry out the providers of the secretary of of carry out the provisions of said act, it will be neces sary to prepare a list of all public lands heretofore reported as mineral that have not been entered and have them offered by president's proclamation. and have them offered by president's proclamation. In the meantime you will be careful not to allow an entry to be made for any lands lists of which were transmitted to your office October 23, 1879, nor of other tracts that have been since investigated and reported as valuable for minerals. All existing bona fide entries under the homestead laws may be perfected, regardless of the mineral character of the land. Any contest pending before you, where the only allegation is the mineral character of the land, must be dismissed. The law requires the offering to embrace all lauds heretofore reported as containing coal or iron that remain undisposed of by energy or sale.

Eight Men in a Cave. ESCANABA, Mich., April 11.—A cave in occurred at Keelridge mine between Quinnessee and Iron Mountain soon after 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon carrying down the engine house and eight men Up to 8 o'clock last night only one man had been rescued, and he was fatally injured. These men rescued, and he was tatally injured. These men were on the surface. None were at work in the mine. The mine is located two miles west of Quinnessee. The cave embraced space 75 by 50 feet, and besides the men engulfed took in all the mining machinery, including four large boilers, falling a distance of one or two hundred feet. At the present writing it is believed the lives of all the men are lost, and it is estimated that the recovery of the bodies will require a week or more.

Burning an Ice Company's Works.

BOOTH BAY, Maine, April 11.—All the extensive buildings of the Knickerbocker ice company here, including the runs, engines, engine houses, and hay and store houses, were totally burned to-day, and 60,000 tons of ice were ruined. The wharves have also been destroyed. Several vessels loading ice were hauled away with great difficulty, owing to the heavy wind. The schooner Julia A. Berkley, of New Haven, was at the wharf, and in hauling her hawser parted and she went ashore, where she now lies in a dangerous position with a hole in her bottom. The cause of the fire is unknown, but was probably incendiary. The loss is estimated at $150,000; insurance, $33,000.

NEW YORK, April 11.—Share speculation opened strong at  $\frac{1}{2}$  to 1 per cent above yester lay's close. During the first half hour a reaction of  $\frac{1}{2}$  to  $\frac{7}{6}$  per cent took place, led by Union Pacific and New Jersey Central, after which the market became strong and about noon recorded an 'advance of 1/4 to 15/4 per cent, in which Lackawanna, Villards, and Hannibal and St. Joe common and preferred led. In the early afternoon Denver and Rio Grande led a reaction of 1/2 to 1 per cent, but about 2 p. m. there was a recovery of 1/4 to 11/4 per cent, the Vanderbilts being most conspicuous. From thence to near the close the market was weak and the improvement lost, the list falling 1/4 to 11/4 per cent, the latter for Union Pacifics. The market closed steady but irregular. Compared with yesterday's close the list is generally 1/8 to 11/4 per cent higher, the latter for Northern Pacific preferred. Transactions aggregated 476,000 shares.

Evening—Exchange 4.83%. Governments strong and generally higher; new 5s 102 bid; 4%s 113% 4s 119%; 3s 103%. Money 6@3. State Bonds strong. Sub-freasury balances: Coin 123, 05.000; currency

LAMAR, RANKIN & LAMAR WHOLESALE DRUGGISTS.

ATLANTA, GA., APRIL 2d, 1883. We have this day admitted as partners in our Atlanta house (the firm name remaining the same),
Messrs. R. R. EVANS, W. A. LOYLESS and L. H. MUSE.

These gentlemen have been with us since we began business at this place, and we feel sure there are none more competent or reliable, nor who will use greater efforts to make dealings both profitable and pleasant to our all customers.

Yours Truly,
LAMAR, RANKIN & LAMAR,

To Merchants and the Trade in General:

Referring to the above flattering notice, we ask a continuance of the patronage so liberally extended heretofore to the old firm.

We shall keep the blace so long occupied by the firm, viz: HEADQUARTERS FOR PURE DRUGS, PATENT MEDICINES, PAINTS, OILS, Etc., Etc.

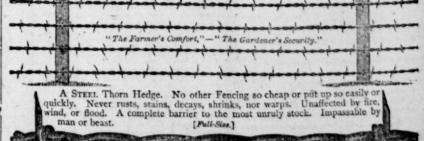

Being backed by ample capital we feel justified in saying that none can offer GREATER INDUCEMENTS, nor strive harder to DESERVE your patronage, and make dealings both pleasant and PROFITABLE.

We will be represented on the road by W. A. MARTIN and W. F. BAKER, so long and favorably known to the trade. Mr. LOYLESS also proposes to make the rounds occasionally. Soliciting your valued orders, which shall always have our CAREFUL and PROMPT ATTENTION, we remain.

Yours Very Truly,

R. R. EVANS,
L. H. MUSS.

A Word or Two of Protes From the Grand Jury of the United States. Court.

The grand jury empaneied in the circuit court of the United States court.

The grand jury empaneied in the circuit court of the United States, having completed their work, was yesterday discharged by the court. During their session they returned twenty-seven true bills. The following communication was presented by them to the court yesterday: We would respectfully recommend that the great evil of issuing warmants sworn out by persons of notoriously bad charted the work of the witnesses are of doubtful verseity, hence the states where the prosecutor and the greater number of the witnesses are of doubtful verseity, hence the states where the prosecutor and the greater number of the witnesses are of doubtful verseity, hence the states have the propose of securing the provided the propose of securing the

For the kindness shown us by his honor, the district attorney and his assistant attorneys and the officers of the court, we would respectfully tender our sincere thanks.

When this communication had been presented, Judge McCay addressed the jury, expressing the thanks of the court for the manner in which they had discharged the duties involved upon them, and at the same time assuring them that he would use every effort to abolish the services of the professional juror, and that in the future all cases would be closely investigated before any steps of prosecution should be taken. The professional juror and professional witnesses wiil be done away with before the summer shall have passed, so says the court.

LETTER FROM AN INVALID.

Among the Girls-Lecture Talks on Macbeth-A Theory on Trial, But Not a Hobby. From the Richmond Christian Advocate.

Nearmy cottage is an institution for young la ies, and I am strong enough at times to make it s visit and give a lecture talk. The past fall I have and I have enjoyed it greatly, not only on account of my own interest in this wonderful production of Shakspeare's genius, but yet more because of the intellectual and moral attention the young students gave to the criticisms. Intellectual and moral attention, I say, for no other words can express the habitually eager and reflective through they bestowed on the discussions, and the pains taking to which their note books and subsequent essays bore witness. It made

ANNOUNCEMENT NUMBER 2.

To the People of Georgia Referring to Wyly's advertisement of March 29th, Messrs. D.

L. Wing & Co., made for us more than one year ago, 440 barrels of their "Neptune," and we sent it out under our Wade Hampton brand. One car of it went to Garrett & Bro., Atlanta, and it gave such dissatisfaction elsewhere, we changed to a better mill.

Mr. D. L. Wing says over his own signature, that the telegram which we brand as spurious, never was sent from his house.

If Wyly's assertion that it is false, is true, I can't help it, the issue lays between Wing, Wyly, and the Atlanta Brokers.

The Wade Hampton is now what it has ever been, the Best Patent in America.

A Strong Statement Vindicated. A Strong Statement Vindicated.

Mr. W. E. Ciarke, of Providence, R. I., severa years ago made concerning his kidney medicine Hunt's Remedy, the strong statement that it "was never known to fail." How did he dare to say so much? How did he know it to be the truth? Because Hunt's Remedy, the great kidney and liver medicine, proved itself to be a positive cure for Bright's Disease of the kidneys; and he knew that a medicine that would accomplish that, would cure any ailment of the kidneys, bladder, liver, or uri nary organs. And time has proved the statemen strictly true. strictly true.

PHILLIPS & CREW. ATLANTA GA.

THE OLD BOOK STORE 8 WALL STREET, Kimball House Block.

It is a well known fact to the literary world that the demand for old, rare books is now unprecedented. I offer to the citizens of Georgia an opportunity to purchase never before presented. Have just purchased from Wilkes county the finest private library in Georgia, 4,300 velumes. With the addition of three smaller libraries added to my stock of 40,000 volumes, gives buyers a selection never before presented in the south. An inspection solicited. School books a specialty. Catalogue free.

Respectfully.

The Fair Closed.

The ladies' fair for the benefit of SS. Peter and Paul's church closed last night with a grand hop. The attendance was larger than at any time previ-The contest between Mr. Charles A. Moran ous. The contest between Mr. Charles A. Moran and Mr. Jeff Miller closed at 10:30 o'clock, the former gentleman winning the handsome present, a gold watch and chain. The vote for the doll carriage was in favor of Miss Mamie Gomes. The following parties were the fortunates in the raffles; Mr. F. Whitaker, a bronze clock; Mr. Will Ryan, a watch; Mr. J. J. McMahan, sideboard; Miss Mary Holliday, a dressing case; Mr. J. Schrost, a wax cross; Mrs. James Lynch, merble vases; Mrs. Saunders, silver pitcher; Mr. C. Leiberman, silver pitcher. Mr. L. E. Spark was presented a beautiful watch by the fair managers. The fair has been well managed and is a financial success.

Police Officer Walker, of Griffin, and Officer Green, of the Atlanta force, arrested Thomas Dunn, colored, on Decatur street last night on a warrant from Spalding, charging him with larceny after trust. Since the offense was committed Dunn has made a trip to Florida. On finding and searching the negro's room the officers found a box of hats marked Alfred Nast, Atlanta. On his person they found a fine gold necklace and a plain gold ring. The property is at the stationhouse, and is supposed to have been stolen.

A Good Sized Wild Gobbler. Captain Glover, the clever conductor on the Marietta and North Georgia road, who has done THE Constitution much acceptable service, while going up yesterday morning, shot a wild turkey gobbler, which he sentas a present to Mr. John Kelly, of this city. The gobbler measures five feet from tip to tip and four feet from foot to bill. The silk of his breast measures ten inches and a half. He weighed 22½ pounds.

PERSONAL.

Mr. C. H. Tileston, representing the Campbell rinting company, of New York, is in the city. Mr. B. K. Tice, manager of the Townsend house conomowoc, Wisconsin, is in the city.

Mr. Thomas E. Carson, one of Pike county's bigest planters, is at the Markham. Mr. M. G. Jenkins, of Montgomery, is at the Markham.

SPOT CASH HOUSE.

DRY GOODS HOUSE.

On Monday, the 9th instant, received a large shipment of

BLACK AND COLORED

SUMMER SILKS,

COLORED OTTOMAN SILKS

with oversuits to match.

The Ottomans are of the most exquisite patierns and designs. When are in question, I claim to be able, without fear of opposition, to show the largest line and more of what is known in the silk trade, as full standard brands, than any one house in the south. And on the charge of prices, I plead guilty. Everybody says I am selling them cheaper than they can be bought elsewhere in this market, and of course, the people ought to Call and see them or send for samples, and you will be on my side too.
